To Whom It May Concern,

My agency has worked with Steve Di Joseph for over seven years. It is with much pleasure that I have the opportunity to write this letter of reference.

I have collaborated with Steve on several major projects, and I can attest to his ability as an excellent copywriter, strategist, and team player. Steve's writing skills, research capabilities, and ability to explain, motivate and educate are exemplary. From our experience, there is no subject he cannot tackle, and write about in an interesting and informative way.

He has also recommended several students from his classes to be interns in our Public Relations division. They have all found Steve's teaching skills inspiring and although considered a tough taskmaster, they consider his courses among the best they have had.

Your students will find him passionate about the written word as well as compassionate as a human being. We believe he will contribute to your College in many ways.

If I can provide any other details about our business relationship with Steve, please do not hesitate to call me.

Sincerely,

P.H.
