

“On March 25, 2008 I had the pleasure of going to hear Mr. Steven DiJoseph speak at BMCC’s Success Conference. DiJoseph’s message and delivery was so powerful that for a while there I forgot that I was attending a college conference. He explained to all how we needed to watch our audiences and command our audiences. They told us we must also command respect and always bring our A-game. I have to say I was very pleased that I got a chance to see and hear DiJoseph speak. Watching and listening to him made me remember the importance of speaking and verbal communication, something that is unfortunately lacking today.”
